Loukas Tsoukalis

Emeritus Professor at the University of Athens, Professor at Sciences Po Paris, and President of the Hellenic Foundation for European and Foreign Policy

Loukas Tsoukalis, one of the world's leading experts on Europe, gives an insight into his new book and a clear and wide-ranging assessment of current European affairs – how the EU became what it is today and what key challenges Europeans now face. These challenges include the search for a common foreign and security policy, which also requires a more symmetrical transatlantic relationship, the search for democracy beyond the nation state, more inclusive societies, the development of the euro into a fully-fledged currency, a greater degree of autonomy in high technology and the greening of the economy.

Discussants:

Ewald Nowotny

Austrian Society for European Policy

Michael Landesmann
