

Mag. Johannes Tropper, BA works as a Researcher & Lecturer (prae doc) at the University of Vienna, Section for International Law and International Relations. He has been coaching the Jessup Moot Court teams in 2019/2020 and 2020/2021.

He graduated in Law and Political Science at the University of Vienna, with a specialization in the 'Law of International Relations'. Furthermore, he participated in the Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition and attended several summer schools at the London School of Economics and Political Science and the Vrije Universiteit Brussel.

Prior to his current position he worked as a Project Research Assistant for the FWF-project 'Rule of Law and International Investment Law', student assistant at the Constitutional Court and student assistant at the Section for European Law. Furthermore, he completed internships at various law firms, including Schönherr Attorneys at Law. During his studies, he also worked as a volunteer in the Academic Forum for Foreign Affairs and the European Student Think Tank.

His research focus includes international dispute settlement, in particular investor-state arbitration, international investment law and unilateral acts in international law.